

Focused Planning

In order to ensure that progression of knowledge, skills and concepts are maintained:

- Curriculum programmes of study are developed into medium term plans which highlight learning objectives, assessment opportunities and sticky knowledge objectives designed to help pupils remember long term content.
- Teachers plan and tailor units of work based around big questions that need answering
- Units of work integrate technology, opportunities for discussion and creativity to address the specific individual needs of pupils so that all pupils are able to reach their full potential regardless of their starting point.
